2. Two guns with a caliber of approximately four centimeters and five-to-six-foot long barrels were drawn by one soldier each accompanied by three others, into the Bundeserziehungsanstalt area. The accompanying soldiers marched so close to the guns that no details could be ascertained. The soldiers wore black-red service colors and crossed gun barrel insignia on their shoulder boards.
3. Twelve officers, with black-red service colors, commanded by another officer, were being drilled in the rain next to the Bundeserziehungsanstalt in a street blocked by two sentries wearing black-red service colors. Six officers wearing ties and five soldiers with black-red service colors and tank insignia were also seen. Other soldiers seen had the same service colors but no arms insignia.
